Other activities included visits to the CNN Center, visits to the Georgia Aquarium, and shopping at Lenox Mall.

On March 23, 2007 the second annual Winner's Circle ceremony took place at the J.W. Marriott in Buckhead, Georgia. The ceremony was designed to honor the individuals who have made major contributions to the organization. These individuals have gone above and beyond their normal responsibilities to afford the company outstanding success. Each of the recipients embody the company's core values, mission and vision, which makes them the best of the best.

This year's recipients celebrated their achievements with a weekend of fun and various activities around the luxurious Buckhead area. Some recipients took part in golf and tennis and others enjoyed relaxing visits to the spa.

Mr. Chuck Schneider and

U.S. Security Associates praised all employees for their contributions to the company's success.
Extraordinary Contribution

James Stecker

U.S. Security Associates proudly names Supervisor James Stecker, Extraordinary Contributor for saving a woman's life. An "Associate" for twenty years, James performs his duties with accuracy her family are very grateful to Supervisor Stecker for saving her life.

tificate of Excellence and two letters of appreciation from the hospital CEO.

He regularly coordinates the activities of Patient Information, Valet Parking and Concierge services. He assists every visitor, student, employee and patient without err. Customarily he greets each person who enters each person who leaves a professional farewell.

Should an incident occur, Security Officer Sprately maintains control of the entire entrance while performing emergency duties.

Security Officer Oria McClain

Posted at the front gate of the American Axle's World Headquarters Building in Detroit is an officer with an impeccable memory and an inborn ability to make people feel welcome. Security Officer Oria McClain embodies the essence of what it means to be a U.S. Security Associate.

The Corporate Security Manager for American

Axle declared December 20th of each year Oria McClain Day to recognize his outstanding work. He also received an "Outstanding Performance" plaque for 2006, a check for $250.00 from Advance Security (U.S. Security Associates, Inc.), free lunches courtesy of the 7th floor executives, as well as personal recognition from the American Axle Chairman.

Systematically, professionally and friendly, McClain performs access control and other duties.

He personalizes his post by charismatically greeting each person that enters or exits the property. By name, he greets each 7th floor executive, each board member, their family members, assistants and drivers each time they enter.

As a result of his alertness McClain has detected vehicles with firearms and other deadly weapons on three separate occasions, and has prevented them from entering. He also prevented several ex-employees - who have harassed and threatened the CEO - from entering the premises; Thereby preventing harm to the CEO and/or other individuals.

Congressman Attends Luncheon

April 10th, 2007-Roswell, GA – Congressman Tom Price attended a luncheon/meet and greet for the corporate "Associates". The "Associates" met the congressman and chatted with him over some piping hot pizza.

Price has served Georgia in the State Senate for four terms. He was elected to represent the Sixth District of Georgia in November, 2004 and was re-elected in 2006.

His priorities in Congress are reforming the tax system, strengthening health care and education, and finding transportation solutions for Atlanta's commuters and residents.

U.S.A. Named "Top Provider"

We are proud to announce that U.S. Security Associates has been named "A Top Performing Provider", again, for the year 2007, by Rockwell Collins. To qualify for this award, a provider must establish a mutual relationship with Rockwell Collins and meet expected levels of excellence in technology, quality, delivery, service delivery processes, responsiveness, cost ownership, financial stability and environmental responsibility.

For over 70 years, Rockwell Collins has been recognized as a leader in the design, production, and support of communication and aviation electronics for customers worldwide. The company's unique balance of commercial and government customers allows it to maintain stability in a volatile marketplace.

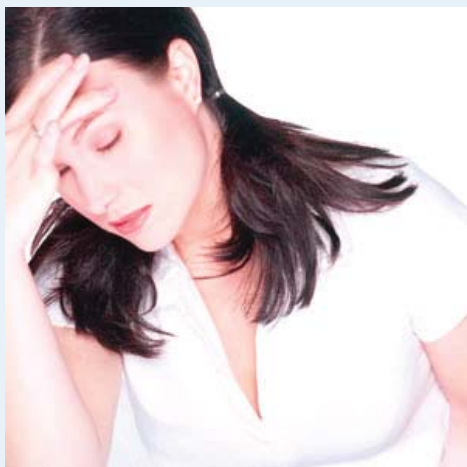

Congratulations to Al Sarnese, Alton Harvey, Kelly Strickland and Rob Fiser who started the account in 2005 and have managed it very effectively since. We serve Rockwell Collins in Cedar Rapids and Coralville, Iowa; Tustin, Pomona and San Jose California; Melbourne, Florida; Richardson, Texas; and Sterling, Virginia.

TOO MUCH STRESS?

Helping the Staff to Manage Stress

Stress comes with the job, but if members of your staff occasionally become overwhelmed, you can help them regain control.

This technique takes just five minutes:

Find a quiet place and sit comfortably close your eyes, take a deep breath, and think about various parts of your body, starting with your feet and moving up.

Notice where the tension is. Concentrate on your neck, jaw, face, forehead, and abdomen.

Relax each part one by one.

Inhale deeply through your nose, and out slowly through your mouth. Concentrate on breathing for a minute or two.

Imagine that the person sitting where you are is someone else and that the real you is still back in the office, rushing around.

Try to see the stressed “you” from this other person’s viewpoint. How should that person cope with the stress you face?

Think about what’s really important and what you can easily put off for now.

Gradually bring your awareness back to yourself.

After a moment walk calmly but purposefully back to the office. Deal with what you need to do, and hold on to your strength and calm.
